Olivia:

Earlier today, I met with our beach rehab contractor on site. We have walked the beach and our contractor understands our desire to duplicate the beach grading in about the same manner as we did about one year ago. True, there is much more sand displacement than last year, but more so since Helene; and there are substantial, deep runnels, sand mounting, and wash-outs across the beach area, as well as sand / silt deposits on concrete walking surfaces (water park and pavilion), all of which we will address.

One non-beach area that will likely need Public Works' attention is the paver sidewalk just outside of the beach fencing – several areas where the walkway pavers were washed loose and sunken and will need to be reset.

When we are finished with the beach sand repairs and replace beach sand along the inside (beach side) of the fencing and walk, it should be fairly straight forward for Public Works or Parks and Rec (whichever is responsible for maintenance of the paved walkway) to reset the pavers. You may want to take a look at that walkway for a better understanding of the paver reset need.

Otherwise, it is our intent to have the beach back to its former attractive look – which I am very glad to say we are commencing later today or Friday morning!

Just FYI and my thanks,
George
